

I am against relaxing the rules of media ownership limits. The relaxation of the rules will only result in our media being owned by a few individuals. This is not in the public interest, since it would be impossible to have a fair exchange of ideas and different viewpoints. The current Clear Channel controversy proves my point. Do not deregulate media ownership.